V. COOKIES, ONLINE TRACKING, AND INTEREST-BASED ADVERTISING

A. Cookie Policy

We may use cookies (a small text file placed on your computer to identify your computer and browser) and other automated tools such as tracking pixels to improve the experience of our Site and services, such as saving your preferences from visit to visit to present you with a customized version of the Site. Many web browsers are initially set up to accept cookies. You can reset your web browser to refuse all cookies or indicate when a cookie is being sent. Instructions for managing cookies in popular browsers are available at: Internet Explorer, Firefox, Chrome, Safari (iOS), Safari (Mac), and Opera. However, certain features of the Site may not work if you delete or disable cookies.

We may use the following types of cookies:

- Session Cookies: Session cookies keep track of you or your information as you move from page to page within the Site and are typically deleted once you close your browser. For example, session cookies help us deliver a relevant and personalized experience when reviewing our products and their features online.
- Persistent Cookies: Persistent cookies reside on your system and allow us to customize your experience if you leave and later return to the Site. For example, persistent cookies may allow us to remember your preferences.
- Advertising Cookies: Advertising cookies are used to learn more about you and advertise products/services that might interest you.
- Analytics Cookies: Analytics cookies help us understand how our Site is working and who is visiting our Site.

We employ software technology to track certain aspects of a user's visit to the Site. This technology helps us better manage content on the Site by informing us what content is effective, how consumers engage with the Site, and how consumers arrive at and/or depart from the Site. The software typically uses two methods to track user activity: (1) "tracking pixels" and (2) "clear gifs." Tracking pixels are pieces of executable code embedded in a web page that track usage activity, including which pages are viewed, when they are viewed, and how long the pages are viewed. Clear gifs are tiny graphics with unique identifiers embedded in web pages and email messages that track whether or not a user has viewed a particular web page or email message. User activity information may be associated with additional information about a user's session and Personal Information if provided by the user.

If you arrive at the Site by "clicking through" from another website, then certain information about you that you provided to that other website, such as the terms you were searching on that led you to the Site, may be transmitted to us, and we may use it. You should review the privacy policy of any website from which you reached the Site to determine what information was collected by that website and for what purpose(s) you agreed that the website could use that information. We may retain Personal Information about you provided to us by other websites and will only use it in accordance with this Website Privacy Policy. Such information may be associated with other Usage Data or Personal Information.

B. Interest-Based Advertising

We may work with third-party advertisers, search providers, and ad networks ("Advertisers") to learn more about you and show you ads or other content that we believe would be relevant to you. Advertisers may collect and use information about your use of the Site. These companies may use cookies and other online tracking technologies to collect and use your information. We and/or Advertisers may also append other data to the data collected by Advertisers to create individual users' interest profile. Our Website Privacy Policy does not cover any use of information that an Advertiser may collect from you. Advertisements may be shown via the Site or on third-party websites. If you do not want to receive interest-based advertising, please visit the Digital Advertising Alliance (DAA) Consumer Choice Page. The DAA website allows you to opt-out of one or more interest-based advertising networks. Opt-outs are device and browser specific; therefore, you will need to set your opt-out preferences for each device and browser. Deleting browser cookies can remove your opt-out preferences; however, the DAA offers browser extensions that help preserve the opt-out preferences you set on the DAA's Consumer Choice Page. Please note that opt-outs only apply to interest-based advertising. You may still receive other types of online advertising.

C. Information from Advertisements

If you arrive at the Site via an advertisement (e.g., banner ad), we may collect information regarding the advertisement with which you interacted and your interactions (e.g., item clicked, date, and time).

D. Social Media Widgets

The Site may include social media features, such as Facebook, YouTube, LinkedIn, and Twitter widgets. These features may collect information about your IP address and the pages you visit on our site, as well as other Personal Information. A cookie may be set to ensure that a feature properly functions. Your interactions with features are governed by the privacy policies of the companies that provide them.

E. Do Not Track Signals

"Do Not Track" ("DNT") is a preference you can set in your web browser to let the websites you visit know that you do not want them collecting data about you. At this time, this Site does not respond to DNT or similar signals.

B. Links

The Site may contain links to third-party websites. Please be aware that if you access these links, you will be leaving our Site (e.g., the site to provide applicant data when applying for a job). We encourage users to read those websites' privacy policies, as we may not be responsible for their content, links, or privacy procedures.

VII. COMPLIANCE WITH LAWS AND LAW ENFORCEMENT

GMCI adheres to all laws and regulations related to personal privacy protection, including those pertaining to the protection of Personal Information and data breach notification. We cooperate with government and law enforcement officials and necessary private parties to enforce and comply with the law. We may disclose Personal Information and any other information about you to government or law enforcement officials or private parties if, at our discretion, we believe it is necessary or appropriate to: respond to legal requests (including court orders, investigative demands, and subpoenas); to protect the safety, property, or rights of ourselves, consumers, or any other third party; to prevent or stop any illegal, unethical, or legally actionable activity; or to comply with the law.

Changes to this Website Privacy Policy will be posted on this Site and will be effective immediately upon posting. You will be deemed to have been made aware of and have accepted the changes by your continued use of our Site. If we determine that a change to this Website Privacy Policy will result in using your Personal Information acquired before the change in a materially new way, we will provide you notice before using your Personal Information in a new way.
